A detailed topographic map of the Volterra area in Italy, showing a network of roads and scattered buildings. The map features contour lines indicating elevation, with major roads highlighted in various colors: red for regional roads, blue for provincial roads, green for municipal roads, orange for consorziate roads, purple for vicinal roads, and grey for private roads. Yellow shaded areas represent scattered buildings. The map is overlaid with a grid of latitude and longitude lines. The title block in the top right corner provides the map's title, scale, and a legend for the road types and building insertions.
